CVI-OS 1.0

Dynamic Open Source Operating System

Greetings everybody!

I imagine that you are here to find out about CVI-OS 1.0 and satisfy your curiosity about all the possible and available program applications, features and capabilities. This is the right place. Since you already know how to initiate action to resolve your intrigue about what this is, you are open minded enough to evaluate options, make a plan and engage in pro-active strategy, establish your resolution to take a course of self-determined action that can and will make an empowering and profound difference in your life.

The Enterprise & Capital Solutions aspect is a fundamental part of an integrated super-structure that is a result of over ten thousand hours of dedicated work in the last 17 years. This developmental stage is where the basic idea and mission, with the corresponding ideals, values, goals, intention and operating system integrity has been worked out. This natural zone of initiative and endeavour has been excellent for the lessons learned and growth to be possible, with challenging and rewarding experiences. Additionally, the solidification of character and personality with the opportunity to mature and focus ideals to express and excel at this endeavour and achieve these goals. Without that, none of this would be possible. The benefit of really knowing what we are each here for and putting our heart, mind, soul and energy into something goes beyond just about any experience many people can imagine. The being on fire and feeling really alive and turned on is something that is possible for many people, and with the CVI-OS 1.0 this is amplified a whole lot more.

Remarkably, the last 1,000 hours or so has been the most productive and has been made possible by a huge block of creative, focused, dedicated and largely un-interrupted time that is in accordance with esteemed values, lifestyle, mindstyle and relentless resolution to do the right thing, in accordance with a greater purpose and mission. Providentially, the most awesome experience has been when the lights get turned on from being in the zone, with whole new dimensions of perception, understanding, awareness and creativity. The pieces to the puzzle continue to be fitted to produce something more tangible, functional and ideal with a vision and plan to make that a reality in something really down to earth.

Now, with Capital Vault Incorporated this operating system is installed and in place, a new beginning has arrived, that enables more relevant choices in general and strategic enterprise development to be possible. This is like a choice point in the timeline, effective and constructive change is possible, the choice to be involved with all the great things that will follow, the alternate future that is waiting in anticipation, the reloaded and revitalized national dream. Everything we do is a work in progress, and luckily by design or destiny, you have a chance to be a part of that, to not only know what all the buzz is about, but also to be a part of that brand new sound that is optimistic, energizing, resonating in harmony with your values, ideals, beliefs and goals, sharing with us in our vision of a greater quality of life. We have a chance to build great things together.

Capital Vault Incorporated

We turn the page and find that we can make each day the most important day of our lives. Everyday we live, we have a chance to make a difference. We have the opportunity, well within our power to express the best of who we are, to choose our values, ideals, goals and actions. We can do all of this within our present level of awareness, capabilities, resources, understanding, energy, desire and choice. We acknowledge that the present level with the right intention can go far in achieving the results we seek and at the same time, we yearn for more. With Capital Vault Incorporated, we can amplify all of that and more.

Additionally, solid long term relationships built on mutual respect, trust, affinity, agreement and co-operation are possible when values, ideals, interests, direction and goals are unified in an environment dedicated to mutual learning, growth, fulfillment, personal expression, development, excellence and success. Developing successful combinations of people directed to produce the envisioned results, add to the the integrity of the system, which continues to be built upon with confidence, trust, tangible results and more options.

These endeavours can be based on any type of individual or group environment, interest, goals, activities, work or otherwise. Working together with a sense of mutual respect, appreciation, understanding, trust and good will, with a good sense of humour, genuine interest, shared ideals and value that goes a long way towards making the most of the character and personality of each person. A spirit of enthusiastic co-operation is a fundamental building block of building great things together.

The stability and value of our operations are based on the foundational value of our relationships, our ability to serve, generate everyday happiness, progress, opportunity and prosperity. This includes our sense of belonging, identity, sense of worth, beliefs, response and contribution. We can direct and channel these values in an energized and active capacity, as we each know what we like and want, and advance forward in that direction, being able to focus on that with dedicated resolution, intention, desire and action. This is essential if we are to make progress, achieve goals and work together successfully.

This democratic consensus of the participating members and mutual agreement in co-operative ventures is vital. There is no super-imposed will, ulterior motives and agenda, there is no command and control, except for mutually shared and inherent executive command and self-control by self-determination and self-directed choice. This means accepting personal and group responsibility and simultaneously increasing and exercising freedom of choice within an environment of co-operation and trust, that works in every way and applies to everyone, no one is exempt from these guiding principals and decisions.

With these guiding principals, we actively make decisions and take any course of action necessary to achieve those goals and act with the kind of integrity, trust and accountability with a more ideal and balanced view. Working together to create abundance, prosperity, success, options and new opportunities is advantageous to everyone in an open system.

Capital Vault Incorporated

The closed system has built in limitations, although their agenda is based on unlimited power, control, super-imposed will with no reasonable recourse or equitable options. For some things this is a good thing, such as an engineering project with performance specifications and must perform exactly as it is design to. For other applications it is a very bad idea as systems can be programmed and configured against you, even if they appear to be working for you, when in reality they are not. In fact, when people realize the facts, on their own, by experience or looking for or at the evidence about what is configured against them, they will find it, they won't like it and they will do something about it as soon as they reasonably can. The past, present and future has both systems. Choosing a system that works with and for you is ideal.

With CVI-OS 1.0 built in and integrated capabilities works in our individual and mutual group quests regardless of the topography, situations, circumstance, resources and operating environment that may exist in and may vary greatly with an massive array of possibilities and variables. The right tools can make our efforts easier, safer, more efficient, effective, productive, profitable and precise.

The CVI-OS 1.0 has capabilities for sequential or simultaneous, contingent, independent or inter-dependent tasking operations with incremental to massive campaign enabled. This includes personal, professional, enterprise and resource allocation, convergence and deployment options with a more custom solution. An operating system is truly a dynamic one if it is advanced enough to solve the most complex problems that might ever be encountered, or the most challenging goals and mission tasking ever envisioned and is something you can work with easily, quickly, comfortably and competently in any situation and environment. Dynamic people, entities, resources and capabilities, not wimpy, limiting and conforming!

How does this work? The keyboard is handy, but what about the pencil pushing jobs eh? Ah, it is good you asked. Since a sense of humour is a good thing, it starts with this, sharpen the pencil at both ends and now move that pencil! With this operating system you do not need a computer, you can do everything in hardcopy, it still has the same operating code, you do not need to memorize anything, you have a reference anytime you need it, there is nothing to download, nothing to encrypt, nothing to worry about, it is designed that way from the beginning of time. All you need to do is complete the relevant form, or follow the instructions that apply to you, easy. If you prefer, someone can download and print documents, otherwise we can send that to you direct, hassle free with time, privacy and the universe on your side.

Our outlook and perspective is in creating new opportunities effectively. Getting the point across and understanding things in greater more relevant detail and perspective is important. We can advance forward individually and as a group with greater consciousness, true values and ideals, focused determination, heartfelt resolution and the kind of perception that can see the world with multiple points of reference, perspective and awareness to discover the combinations of possibilities and potential to be the new alternate reality. With a tremendous national resource base, organisation, vision and mission with clear goals and these capabilities we can generate a lot of great value for everyone involved.

Capital Vault Incorporated

There are many incredible and awesome things to see, do and experience. “We can build that here” is something we like to encourage. A full spectrum of opportunity awaits us to explore and discover, get involved with and make a valuable contribution to in an amplified way.
