

Is this you?

All kinds of people are needed to make the world go round. We share the fundamental believe that anyone can make a difference, anyone can freely choose, make decisions and determine a course of action, either independently or within a group, of their own initiative or with a little encouragement. You might be asking yourself and wondering what we are all about, what kind of people we are looking for, or who might be interested in joining us, becoming a member and benefiting from one or more of the CVI-Options, something in particular you might want, need, like, appreciate or even identify with, a noble cause, an idea whose time has arrived, something we all need or certainly can give our vote of confidence, trust and good will too. Well, keep reading, as what we want to know, "Is this you?"

Yes, opportunities exist for those people that embrace change, challenge, risk, uncertainty and continuous improvement, including people who like good old stability, clear cut direction, purpose and the everyday strength, who appreciate the rock solid permanence of the building blocks of a free and successful society, family, community and free enterprise. Are you like this? We hope so. It is an important characteristic to have and express, every day confidence and belief, a sort of timeless, civilization enhancing capacity that gives people stability, peace of mind and an all important reminder to look at the long term vision and not to sweat the small stuff. We all need that kind of enlarged concept of acceptance, challenge and reward of practical everyday thinking and doing that people admire.

People with a positive mental attitude is essential in any kind of endeavour. Sports, mountain climbing, fixing the car, truck, tractor or piece of machinery, remaining positive, optimistic and thinking and feeling only success contributes to more success. It is easier to feel motivated by a sound well thought out presentation of opportunity, that gets the point across in mind and heart penetrating symbols, language with overwhelming confidence and belief, since as many of have found out, if we don't believe in it, it probably wont happen. Everyone appreciates a flash of a smile, even our own, it gives us a lot of good feeling and positive outlook, easy to do and only requires our effort, it changes everything inside our heart and soul to the environment around us instantly and powerfully, smile, one of the most forgotten secrets and one you or anyone can try right now, just to see if it is true. Are you like this?

Then there are people, who consistently render obsolete arguments, irrational and illogical fears, insecurities, doubts, pessimism, frustration, discouragement, disappointment, despair, the inner critic and all the dysfunctional emotional stuff that bogs many people down. They seem immune from such trivial and non-essential experiences. Friends like that are a really good idea to have around, in our everyday arsenal for combat fatigue. We can make it a new habit, to stand tall and look to the stars or the morning sunrise with confident expectation, and envision all the great things we would like to accomplish, achieve, initiate and succeed at. We each can formulate and execute an action plan that transcends, surpasses and overcomes those formidable mountains. If you like to make speeches, presentations or simply encourage people, promote or champion a good cause and continue to confidently choose something better, then we can build great things together.

Some people who seem rare, or just maybe hide well are the nationalists. These people like this country, they like where they are, enjoy thoughtful patriotism and see a bigger unifying picture. The economic nationalist really looks at the details and expands the view with in depth detail, relationships, systems, the cause and effect many complex but simple variables. We all like a room with a view, right? There is of course, the techno-nationalist, who like an incredible range of technology programs, projects and products, national pride, building bridges, infra-structure and no limit to challenging and rewarding projects like the Avro Arrow. People that like to buy Made in Canada, buy local and doing things just because...that's us!

There are people who like to experience the happiness, confidence and optimism from making choices, exercising their personal power to create an alternate reality more in tune with their values, goals and fundamental beliefs, likes and dislikes, who like to build a solid long term portfolio shared with people you can see eye to eye with, work and be friends with, content, peaceful, relaxed and focused enjoying everyday life experience. This kind of personality is great to have around, never perturbed, bothered, annoyed vexed or anxious, patient and mostly worry free, wow, personal philosophy in 3D, you are a welcome relief and change of pace. It is conceivable that perhaps you might like to engage in personnel and business management and transform the atmosphere with your mere presence, all kinds of people need your example, strength and resolve, please develop a program for all kinds of entrepreneurs, companies and organizations that need to succeed in difficult, challenging and sometimes complicated and stressful times. Join us and excel at more of what you do best.

There are even more opportunities for people that we can count on to get the job done, who make effort and not excuses, who look after the best interest of everyone with the kind of natural understanding, timely perception in an ever present conscious awareness, with a solid position and resolve, amplified with confident expectation of mission tasking success that somehow always gets worked out with the every day results that continues to inspire trust by leadership and generate confidence in the people you are entrusted with. The kind of person who accepts and appreciates people for who they are and encourage them to be the best they can be, who like themselves as they are and don't offer any apology for super-achieving expectations that are simply requests in their mind. These people are not unrelenting task masters of impossible expectation, but seem to have a natural feel for what can be done and a belief and confidence in another's ability to get the job done. Oh, yes, the super manager, another item on the to do list to get done, we should all be proud to work with someone like that. We need more people that can lead, direct, challenge and work together as a real team, with the understanding of every role and particular expertise, this makes it easier, everyone can learn, grow and excel as be sure that preparation meets opportunity as the saying goes. You have talent, we know you can do it, you might be amazed with yourself. Is this you?

This is for people who like to make a difference, who value and believe in their sense of worth and their capacity to make a difference, who are not afraid to assert themselves, to be involved, to develop new abilities, insights, awareness, perspective and experience, who can take some risk, who are willing to let go of the status quo and continue to go in the direction they believe in, answering to nothing and no one except what is in their heart. People that know some things must change, and in fact, many things must change, being pro-active to focus energies and talent to actively build the kind of life envisioned, the kind of future we yearn for and the everyday moments we can enjoy in the process. If you are like this, your courage, confidence and strength is worth will continue to generate the results you seek and you are most welcome to join us, as this is how all of this started, a simple idea, vision and ideal that could never be relinquished, never surrendered, not for anything. Join us, and explore the limitless potential you have with a whole new perspective, challenge and reward.

Are you the type of person that is willing to confront and conquer their fears, expand their boundaries, solve problems, move through, over and around obstacles, setbacks and mountains of stuff that seem to get in the way and test your resolve and resolution for those annoying, frustrating, aggravating and un-comfortable situations that can discourage us, de-energize us in a flash, or burn up truckloads of patience? Do you exercise tenacity, resourcefulness, willpower and fortitude, or have a sense of going in the right direction, relentlessly doing what is important, finding or inventing your way, a pioneer blazing a trail to create the world one step at a time. We hope to encounter more people in this rare but competent group, admired by people who wonder how anyone could be like that. If you are already in this group, lucky you and congratulations with your invincible ethics and fortitude. After you join us in our efforts, please write a how to book, you will make lots of friends.

Are you on fire for something? Do you like to create, work and have fun all day long, or create with your hands, heart, soul and mind, or like to invest money, time, expertise or other resources, or to promote, be involved, make a difference, dream, make plans, have vision, or be capable of generating ideas out of thin air and transforming it into tangible reality? This kind of person is like having a super-charged exhilarating breath of fresh air by the ocean or a mountain waterfall cascading with pure delight into the abyss below without a worry in the world. This could be you, the ultimate champion, eternal optimist and dynamo, all kinds of people depend on you and wish they had that incredible spark and lucky puppy outlook that just doesn't stop. We could all use a change of pace, enhanced vitality and brand new emotion of jumping in with both feet and running off full blast at the newest most exciting day of our lives. You are invited to make a personal appearance any day any where!

Are you the type of person determined to go in the direction of your dreams, are willing to trust your heart, make decisions and accept personal responsibility to choose an alternate reality, something possible, tangible or not, something alive and full of exciting experiences of heartfelt pulse pounding reality, something you can be part of right now, in the moment. Do you forever relinquish feelings of fear, inadequacy, doubt, the status quo of mediocrity and settling for good enough, actively pursuing excellence, achievement, success, solid measurable progress with effort towards taking the time to invest in personal development, with the idea of re-inventing yourself to be everything you can be? These people have the audacity to test themselves, to see what they are really capable of and excel beyond our imagined mortal limit, to be involved in something and find out just how amazingly possible it is to make a good and valuable difference, whether the ground floor opportunity or something that reaches for the stars, daring to live a life beyond the wildest dreams, with the kind of integrity, honesty, sincerity with a keen sense of justice and always doing what is right. With your incredible reserves of star power, it is expected you will continue in your purpose as that is what you are here for, however, if anything here really interests you and resonates with your character, purpose and driving force, it would be awesome to experience new adventures and even begin to build great things together in a world without limits. If you are even remotely like this, your faith, energy, confidence, courage, focus and spiritual character will not only make you friends with Superman, your life will continue in that direction. The world needs more people like you as there is no comparable experience like flying in the physical, mental, emotional, psychological, spiritual and astral level! Once you have your wings, your life will never be the same again. Cheers to our mutual friend Kal EI!

So now my friends, most likely we have some understanding. This is more about character and personality, solid people with integrity that like to get involved. This is not like a job description at all, no way. It is more like expanding your opportunities, personal growth and development, joining and building co-operative networks and teamwork. This is about expanding your horizons to conquer new territory, being action focused with energy, talent and resources directed to something more up to speed, more intense, the feeling of being really alive, living and loving a challenging, rewarding and enjoyable life. This is more about revitalizing industry, wealth and nation building, the creation of opportunity without sacrificing the environment or neglecting the responsibilities we have or can accept. We advance forward in greater capability in service to those around us. We are surrounded by people, companies, communities and this country that need good people to be involved for a good cause, who have a really good idea how to help, or even just want to help and contribute in some way, people that make a difference, multiplies with all the other people that also make a difference in so many ways. This is important, the future of the country hangs in the balance with the difference determined by good people who choose to do something, sometimes anything, versus the good people who do nothing.

Oh yes, we can build great things together as unified people with solid character and dynamic personality. People that care enough to dedicate valuable time, resources, talent and their personal gifts of expertise, to a mission unlike any other. We would like to learn more about you and explore amazing possibilities in that alternate reality that we can build together. This does take courage, risk taking and expanding boundaries, with new experiences and perspectives as all part of the game. These opportunities exceed and transcend physical, material and financial values, and are in the direction of learning, growth, excellence, timeless spiritual values, achieving individual and group destiny, like the search for the Holy Grail.

Our goals and mission tasking with all the programs, projects, technology, products and services are important and part of the process, even as our personal private lives require considerable thought, resolution, pro-active strategies, a personal spiritual practice, a practical philosophy, a mentality and way of life that is making the world a better place, step by step, every day. Our shared realization is that anyone can make a difference, and we start with ourselves, we express the best of who we are and share our gifts to the world and with others with our own personal style, character, personality, sincerity and integrity.

Let the new world begin!
