A short speech for a couple of billion dollars...

National economics is something that concerns all of us. We might not want to talk about it or think about it, but here is something to consider since you are interested what this speech is about. It is just a perspective that might let you see things a little differently.

- The cost of much greater quality made in Canada may be more obvious, but how much more? Many imported items now cost more than they ever did when they were made in Canada, not that long ago. Generally, we don't like to be critical or negative, but like to look on the bright side, so yes, the biggest room in the world is the room for improvement. Quite simply, if we didn't buy so much junk that does not last, we probably would not need to throw away, recycle and buy stuff all over, again and again. Saving money is like making money, reducing overhead, maintenance, repair or replacement cost will actually cost you less, it's possible to be richer buying better quality that lasts.

Ask yourself, am I so rich I can afford to buy “stuff n junk” not made in Canada? Am I so stupid in fundamental economics and lacking in vision that I have no Made in Canada choices? Why not? Is it so much better to export jobs, factories and shut down whole industries and contribute to economic and industrial genocide? Is it so difficult to be part of a solution that can totally transform the quality of life everywhere in Canada? Is it so much better to be completely screwed by free trade deals so that there is nothing you can do about it? These unelected people with traitorous acts of super-imposed regulations that are designed to eliminate national sovereignty, steal what you have and defraud you of your amazing and awesome future and every moment right now, from what it is supposed to be. Is it so much better to wipe out generations of progress, technology, our very own laws that we agree on to build and live in an advanced civilization?

Ask yourself, Is it so much better to be buried in debt and in perpetual slavery without having real hope of an everyday honest and productive life and better tomorrow? Is a life of desperation, problems, frustration, anxiety and poverty so much better? Or how about unachieved expectations, depression, missed opportunities or all the problems from not having sufficient resources, is that so much better? Is feeling like a victim and blaming someone or something for all your problems so much better? Why not take charge, invent your own future, the real destiny, assertive, confident, ambitious and yes even audacious, why not? Many people are enslaved by their addictions such as coffee, smokes, drugs, grass, alcohol, gambling, lotto tickets, scratch tickets, the list goes on and on, this includes cell phone addiction and the latest gadgets.

OK, no problem, lots of money for all that eh? We are not saying to quit it, give it up, that you are bad, but maybe, just maybe imagine how easy it is to do something slightly different with exponential results. Imagine one million people investing $5.00 a week? Hmmm. Is that a sacrifice? Build factories, buy and build machinery, create good solid quality well paying jobs, opportunities everywhere for a better future is something we can all participate in, even if it is $5.00 a week. Talk about a winning streak eh? More good news that is rare and hard to find. It is easy to pay good money for bad news, but what about something awesome? (Yes you are still waiting for the Capital Vault Radio and TV channel, we are working on it, along with people who can contribute to pro-active citizen journalism). Now imagine a revenue stream amplified many times over for the rest of your life from one consistent simple and easy strategic action that creates an alternate future for you and others by the incredible freedom of choice? Now, that's what I'm talking about? A whole different emotion, a new experience, a whole new reality, confidence and trust that the universe and Capital Vault Incorporated is on your side. There really is a lot of good news, amazing potential and a world of opportunity.

Imagine how that would feel, amazing job and career opportunities, technology, products and services that you are a part of in creating, developing and making something possible that would not otherwise be possible? You see, once you have awareness and relevant options, you can simply stop doing what creates more of what you don't want and don't like and choose to do something that creates more of what you do like and do want. This starts with the simple and unequalled satisfaction of making a personal decision, since you are now more responsible, as you have learned that doing and being that way is the surefire route to personal empowerment, with the more you exercise the more you have and it becomes easier to continue to do so. It is a lot like getting in shape or developing any particular competence.

Of course with this optimistic and action oriented life, a much more powerful and effective belief structure, mindstyle and lifestyle will be yours. Giving up the comfortable cruise control of predictable and unchangeable reality and all the problems that go with it, will be gradually relinquished as you continue to seek out challenge and opportunity, embrace change, conquer fears, insecurities and doubts, all that self sabotage that keeps you from living those dreams, fulfilling your destiny and being the best of who you are.

Now, as you may know, this endeavour involves technology, machinery, infrastructure, materials and other resources. This seems like a very physical material endeavour, but it is not the only thing. Yes we need jobs, productivity and growth, not from selling ourselves out, signing over natural resources, or letting countries rip off and steal anything and everything of value, or from obscene immigration policies or from agreeing to obscene trade deals that put us at a total disadvantage and to our country to censor and over ride or over rule an incredible amount of laws established in this country as part of our commonwealth heritage, or from profiting from massive import retail operations that create next to no jobs by people that don't really care if you have a job, especially from making things that could be sold profitably when maintaining economic and community prosperity.

We need a spirit of co-operation, a common vision, these relevant opportunities that people can relate to, utilize, benefit from and even believe in with their heart and soul, people that can do things because they have the opportunity, because they want to and can, it is in their power. We need people to see the bigger picture and how easily they can contribute to that alternate reality in any way that they can. We need people to stop doing or greatly reduce doing business with companies that are so much get, get, get oriented, like as in, we just want to sell to you, stuff we buy, counterfeit and rip off and acquire at next to nothing prices so we can make record profits from you buying our stuff n junk not made in Canada, so you can buy more, and never be able to save, re-invest in your own industries and to influence, control and own your destiny. Freedom of choice eh, well import retailers don't like that very much, unless it is their stuff n junk. After all, what do you think will happen with all these un elected lobby group with super imposed trade deals, mixed with our massive array of corporate, economic, environmental, social and moral responsibility, and the very real criminal corruption and totally unfair to the Canadian manufacturing industries reality, mixed with unethical unpatriotic governing agents and agreements are in place? Once again, have you ever heard anyone in government say "Buy made in Canada"? No, I did not think so. Actually, we are hoping to allocate a few hundred million reward money to provide this evidence, without bribing government officials to be doing and saying what they should, which is a whole lot more Made in Canada. The lowest price import theory is not the lowest price, it is the most expensive and is enabled by the illusion, bribery and corruption of reasoning faculties based on only one thing the price. What about the jobs, revenue, tax revenue, investment, infrastructure, quality of life, economic and industrial vitality? What about when we and the the government need to mobilize troops, industry, get things done? It is a whole lot easier to to that quickly, efficiently and very affordably if we having working assets and infrastructure in place, people that can work, use their brains, do the math, geometry, art, work, promotion, sales, engineering, organization. The welfare, addictions, debt and lack of productivity all lead to and generate national, community and personal genocide. Look around, it is time to do something a whole lot different, including business with a more long term outlook that is more altruistic, co-operative and beneficial, something that Capital Vault Incorporated is dedicated to.

Ask any economist what smart business is, most likely you will get a lot of different answers, ask an import retailer what smart business is, you will probably get the same answer. Ask an everyday person who buys stuff and you will probably get a rare or non-existent ideal, just like the little red and white Made in Canada sticker. Just a small reminder that in addition to secure supply lines and job creation being paramount, a suggestion to remove the disposable income idea and lifestyle with a discretionary buy, build, save and invest-made in Canada program.

Of course you might like to consider that those 500,000 or so manufacturing jobs we lost in the last few years without a fight (after all that's what happens when you lay down your arms and die, right...) require an incredible amount of engineering eh! People out of work, that's expensive, less government revenues, that's expensive too, people not living their dream, unemployed or under employed, that's really expensive, all the theoretical promises of wealth, freedom and opportunity from the education system that totally lacks power to create jobs (unless you are a pension fund manager who actually supports Canadian engineering and manufacturing in a public, private, union or non-union organization, and private companies really need more resources) is expensive too if the jobs and industry is non-existent. Luckily for us we don't blame anyone or anything, we accept personal responsibility for our actions and the reality we create, experience in live in.

For us, our goal is noble, help create 50,000 new made in Canada manufacturing jobs. This is not a competition in job creation, it is a co-operative venture in careers, companies, technology, products and amazing opportunities available to our members. For Canadians, the task is simple, look at the label, choose Made in Canada as much as you can! If you want to be more involved and be part of something great, sign up and be a part of our "Buy, build, save and invest-Made in Canada eh!" campaign, benefit from innovative business and capital solutions and any of the exciting CVI-Options we are promoting dedicated to more made in Canada than ever before!
