Alternate reality creation and new wealth generation is promoted, enabled and amplified. The vast expanse of CVI-Options enable involvement and contributions that are convenient, practical, purposeful with conventional and state of the art characteristics.

Our quest concerning private venture capital is unified with the Portfolio Development operations to enable a much more powerful "stockpile & deploy" capability. This is also integrated with a fantastic array of advantageous CVI-Options, with the corresponding programs utilized by an enterprise to optimize creative opportunities throughout operations including synergistic and amplified effects concerning business combinations and business purpose related activities available by Member Options, Account Options and more exciting possibilities without equal.

Naturally hard currency investments are the prime mover in investment capacity with the idea that it can acquire or make possible almost anything as money is often viewed as power. Our outlook is that money is part of the equation. However, investing may also include non-financial investment contributions such as time, expertise, material resources, facilities or related infra-structure, machinery, equipment and technology, intellectual capital, dynamic management, research, production and sales teams. Additionally, securities may also be utilized as a form of investment, part of an initial organization or any number and type of business combinations beneficial to the participating members and operations.

Real people, personnel with common purpose, vision and energy fortified with a more "personally invested approach" made possible with working share-owners, solid asset protection, advanced organizational development capabilities and an environment that promotes individual creative imagination and genius, in addition to workgroups that share in each others success while generating worthwhile contributions and achievements in the operations of the enterprise. This enables a whole lot more in creative investment capacity to be realized with a vastly improved outlook for involvement, investment and intelligent use of resources that seems to be simply unavailable in the public securities markets.

A more confident and positive outlook towards generating or contributing private venture capital funds towards enterprise development is backed up with a much larger network actively working in combination to vastly improve wealth producing power, job and career opportunities, valuable and successful local, regional and national enterprises that add to the quality of life and opportunities in Canada, with new and expanding companies, technology, products and services.

Providentially, we believe that high powered investment resources in a private securities market in private Canadian companies can better focus and direct a much greater degree of total available resources more effectively in the manifold operations of the enterprise, long term vision and primary mission tasking.

Ideally, more consistent and steady investment values and predictable returns are possible with thoughtful business decisions based on a solid business plan and covered in much greater detail through a prospectus. This is very good and valuable in itself and adds to the strength and success potential, especially when one considers all the engineering, thinking and intellectual capital that is invested to begin with and the extent of creative options to generate more beneficial rewards, investment, business and personnel opportunities.

Avoiding the daily stock price fluctuation concerns, or investing with institutions that are leveraged way beyond the moon with derivatives and other extreme gambling moves, pumping and dumping stock is really too much risk and anxiety, and it is simply not the main thing or anything that concerns us. Also, on the side, the only hedge funds we believe in are cedar hedges or something like that...just so you know.

Our portfolio is a reflection of living the greatest adventure of all time. Some things are more exciting than others just like anything else. We believe it is important to help create companies, jobs, careers, technology, products and services and have a supportive environment and organization that really works to the advantage of people, communities, industries and Canada to make valuable contributions to the quality of life, our shared values, experiences, opportunities and more Made in Canada eh!
